"WALK TOGETHER, TALK TOGETHER, O YE
THEN AND ONLY THEN SHALL

PEOPLES OF THE EARTH: YE HAVE PEACE."

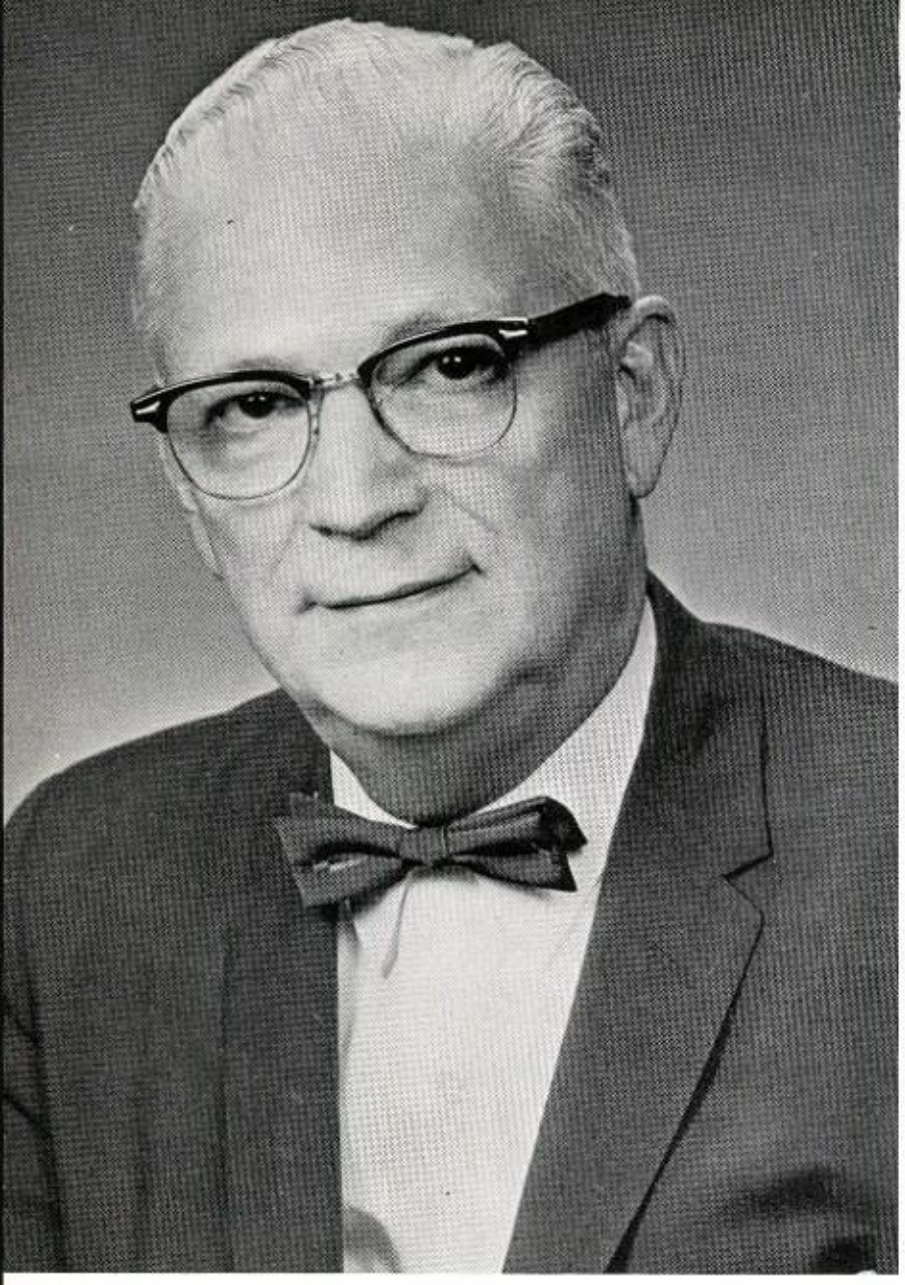
— AFS MOTTO

In the face of the present world crisis it has become exceedingly important that we have a greater knowledge and understanding of the other peoples of the world, their governments, and their ways of life. A large portion of this task lies in the hands of today's youth, for they will be tomorrow's leaders.

American Field Service, the founder of a volunteer ambulance service which worked with the French Armies in the two world wars, is now the sponsor of the largest youth exchange program in the world.

Here at Nathan Hale we have brought three students from abroad, one from Australia, one from Greece, and this year Urs Schneider from Switzerland. We have sent Hale students to Germany and Brazil. Next year we hope to have two students from abroad. The picture on this page of Urs and his American friends, all holding flags of United Nations members, symbolizes this school's faith in the aims of the American Field Service—friendship and increased understanding among all the peoples of the world.

Today, the American Field Service brings students from more than fifty countries to attend American secondary schools for a year of study and experience. Under the auspices of the Americans Abroad Program, a division of AFS, American teen-agers from nearly every state are sent abroad to live with families and attend schools in some thirty countries. The students range in age from sixteen to eighteen, a period when they are the most adaptable, open-minded, and eager to learn. They have been carefully screened for personality as well as for intelligence, in order that they be well qualified to make their experience abroad worthwhile for themselves and for those with whom they come in contact.

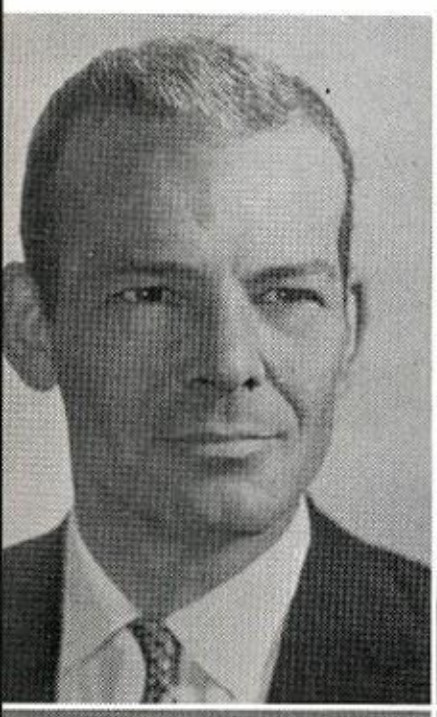


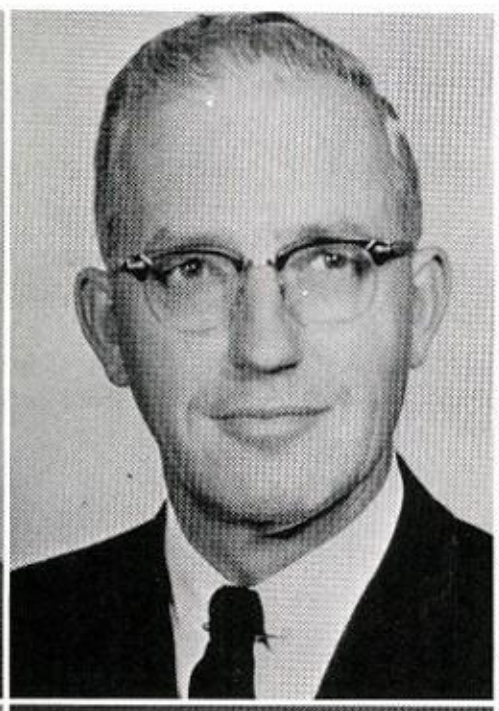
The American Field Service offers an opportunity for greater understanding and friendship among the peoples of the world. Friendships and understandings are developed through the active participation of AFS students in the community life of the countries they visit. Through these close contacts AFS students have the opportunity to learn of many of the customs, ideals, and interests of others. As the AFS students return to their homes they spread the word of their experience in speeches and in print. Many of these experiences can be adapted in their home countries.

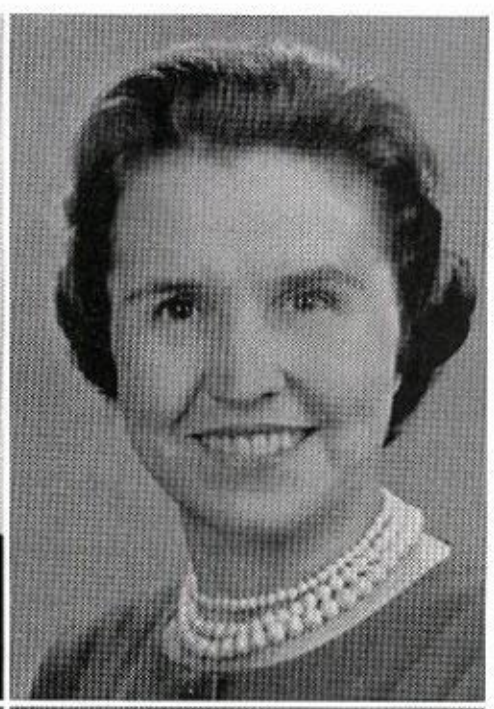
As members of Nathan Hale's graduating class of 1963, you are to be congratulated for your mature grasp of the importance of understanding among peoples of the world. Only through our knowledge of the customs, cultures, economic structures, and religious and political ideologies of people of all countries can we ever hope to live together in peace.

DR. CHARLES C. MASON
Suprintendent of Schools

TULSA BOARD OF EDUCATION







Mr. Villard Martin, Jr.,
President
Mr. Fenelon Boesche
Mrs. J. Littleton Daniel

Mrs. Virgil O. Wood,
Vice-President
Mr. Carl C. Beesely
Mr. William L. Butler
Mr. H. G. Barnett

The miracle of space age travel and communication has made next door neighbors of far away people. The improvement of transportation has, through the ages, brought us ever closer to distant lands. We have become neighbors so suddenly that turmoil and unrest have resulted. There is great difficulty in reconciling language, racial and cultural barriers.

The foregoing pose the greatest challenge to the coming generation. We meet the challenge by learning about people in other lands and by trying to understand them. Our aim is to destroy misunderstanding which keeps us from living at peace with our fellow men.

The American Field Service program was born so that we might develop better understanding through an exchange of students with a resultant exchange of cultures. Here on the local level, through American Field Service, young people are preparing to live in tomorrow's world.

We salute the students' efforts and the guidance of the adults who have assisted in this program at Nathan Hale High School.

When the forces of unrest are subdued, it is my hope that American Field Service advocates will have received merited recognition.

MR. LIEB RICHMOND, Principal

Perhaps one of the most endearing aspects of Mr. Richmond is his open door policy. Available to students, faculty, and parents, he greets them all with a smile, a welcoming wave of the hand, and a cheery come in. He may not agree with what his visitor has to say but he listens. When not attending to a busy schedule he may be in conference with his staff or even found brousing in his favorite corner of the library.

Miss Marjorie Young, Counselor

Mr. James Darland, Counselor

VICE-PRINCIPAL AND COUNSELORS

Mr. Bill Williams, Counselor

Mrs. Ethel Mackay, Dean of Girls

Mr. L. B. Howard, Dean of Boys

The efficient staff working in the main office has kept our school running smoothly. Mrs. Dorothy Stipe faithfully prepared our daily bulletins and helped to organize the quarterly honor rolls. Mrs. Vesta Clark served as registrar. She also recorded standardized test scores and other information on permanent records. Mrs. Louise Cole was supply clerk and assisted Mrs. Clark in preparing the permanent records. Mrs. Gladine Mask prepared schedules in addition to working in the library three hours a day. Mrs. Joanne Ellis was secretary to Mr. Lieb Richmond, our principal.

MAIN OFFICE STAFF

Hale's student office assistants have been friendly and efficient in the performance of their daily tasks. The attendance helpers, the athletic assistants, the main office workers, and the switchboard operators have worked harmoniously together to help in the various offices keeping business in order and up to date. At the beginning of each class hour, they report to their respective instructors for assignments. By enabling students to perform services of this nature, a fine office training program is offered for those interested in becoming future business men and women. Mrs. Maxine Krebbs is in charge of attendance.

HALE FACULTY

The faculty members at Nathan Hale act as guides to the students in their classes, enabling them to gain the necessary knowledge and understanding of the other peoples of the world.

The art department, under the direction of Mr. Richard Howard, introduces the students to many techniques of art, develops their artistic talents and their appreciation of art.

Under the direction of Mrs. Marjorie McBurnette, the business education department offers training in the various fields of clerical and secretarial office practice. Proficiency in these courses makes it possible for students to obtain positions in the business world after graduation.

Mrs. Norma Dobson, the English department chairman, co-ordinates the English courses offered so that the students who attend Nathan Hale will have the opportunity to read widely and to become proficient in grammar and composition. Team teaching, a new system employed in this department, enables the instructors to present a broader course of study. English Honors 12 enables selected twelfth grade students to continue their study of English by reading widely and by discussing and evaluating the material covered. Elective English courses offered at Hale include: speech, journalism, and yearbook.

A thorough knowledge and understanding of other languages and cultures is the aim of the foreign language department, guided by Mr. Alden Smith. The modern language laboratory enables the students to become more familiar with the language and its application and makes individual instruction possible.

As our world grows smaller, each student must have a knowledge of the past and present and an understanding of his neighbors. It is through the study of history that this is best achieved. The objective of the history department, under the direction of Mr. Troy Miller, is to give young people an over all picture of the past, so that they may profit from the successes and failures of bygone generations and thus help to create a better world in which to live today.

Every girl at some time will need the knowledge and experience gained in the study of home economics. Courses in foods, clothing, personal development, and general homemaking are supervised by Mrs. Vola Tanner.

The industrial arts and vocational departments, supervised by Mr. Joe Large, are designed to provide students with practical opportunities to explore various vocational interests.

The mathematics department, under the direction of Mrs. Bernice Smith, offers the usual high school math courses plus several advanced classes such as SMSG geometry and math analysis. A course in probability and statistics is being considered for next year. Under the capable guidance of Mr. George Sands, the science department makes it possible for students to take many advanced courses in the field of science. Hale is fortunate in having the modern laboratory equipment which helps to further develop knowledge and understanding.

Our music department offers many courses which can be a great asset to the students who plan to continue in this study. Mr. Clarence Lawless directs instrumental music, and Mr. David Robbins directs vocal music.

Emphasizing development of skills and physical well being, the physical education departments at Hale, under the guidance of Miss Sandra Wilson and Mr. WoodrowWest, offer a wide variety of sports. In the boys' department, football, basketball, swimming, wrestling, and track are offered for training in competitive sports. Although the girls do not take part in competition, their major sports are modern dance, volleyball, hockey, basketball, baseball, and swimming.

Those students interested in pursuing a career in stagecraft are guided by Mr. Jerry Harrison.

HALE FACULTY

Mr. Richmond is famous for and favored by his faculty for his brief and to the point teachers' meetings. This group is settling in for such a meeting, and although it is Monday and three forty-five they are still smiling.

OUR LIBRARY

Hale's beautiful library with its ever increasing number of books, periodicals, and pamphlets provides a comfortable place for students to read and to do research for class assignments. Located on the third floor, just over the main office, the library is capably directed by Mrs. Bess Greenlee and her student assistants.

The scholarship room, adjacent to the entrance of the library, provides bulletins and other information on admission requirements, tuition, and regulations of a great many colleges. There are also numerous folders and pamphlets explaining vocational careers for those who will terminate their education upon graduation from high school. Hale students have taken good advantage of examining these college and vocational catalogs.

Also adjoining the library are two conference rooms, the librarian's office, and the workroom for library assistants. The workroom is equipped with materials used in the processing and repairing of books.

Besides being especially proud of the modern lighting and colorful furniture, we at Hale are happy to have a government document catalog, vertical files and Readers' Guides which enable students to locate books and magazines with greater ease and speed, plus a wide variety of encyclopedias and other reference materials.

SCHOOL BANK

Our school bank has been a tremendous aid to the students, teachers, and organizations this year. Behind its glass windows before and after school, students along with Mrs. Pat Linn have energetically sold tickets to athletic events, sock hops, dances, plays, and other school-sponsored activities. They also managed the sale of budget tickets, school life papers, yearbooks, calendars, book covers, and all school supplies. All financial business of the school was taken care of by the bank, and school organizations were able to place their treasuries in the vault.

Our school nurse can be found working busily in the clinic every school day until twelve noon. The nurses aides, who work directly under the supervision of Mrs. Brosseau, can be found in the clinic every hour of the day helping with the clerical work, and keeping the clinic neat and clean. In addition to taking care of the daily health problems of the student body, our school nurse supervises the school health clinics and the Smile Contest every year. Mrs. Brosseau and several of Hale's teachers participated in the drive to stamp out Polio in Tulsa. 16,753 turned out at Hale for their first lump of sugar which had been doctored with Sabin oral vaccine.

HEALTH CLINIC

By maintaining clean and sparkling corridors throughout the year, Hale's industrious custodians have kept our building looking as new as the day that classes began. They have taken special pains in keeping our beautiful auditorium, library, cafeteria, and foyers in tiptop shape, and they have been extremely careful in keeping the classroom facilities and laboratory equipment in excellent condition. Many of the custodians served as yardmen for our campus grounds of forty acres in addition to caring for the 220,000 feet of floor space in the building each day. They devoted a great deal of time keeping the grounds neat and clean and the athletic fields in excellent condition.

SCHOOL CUSTODIANS

CAFETERIA STAFF

The pleasant and friendly attitude of Hale's dieticians and cashiers has contributed toward making our cafeteria a more inviting place to eat. The well-trained cafeteria staff spent many hours in advance of lunchtime preparing good nourishing meals for the student body in addition to providing quick and efficient service during the noon hour.

While chemistry doesn't always involve posing with brilliantly colored liquids, class experiments do involve much of the equipment that Steve Booehr, Linda Ladd, Ed Owens, and Betty Day are examining. The magic of the unknown acts as a great lure to high school students who are serious about careers in science.

Cheryl Huffman admires those last flourishes which Barbara Sensintaffer adds to her oil painting. In the background are examples of other students' work: ceramics, mobiles, and charcoal drawings.

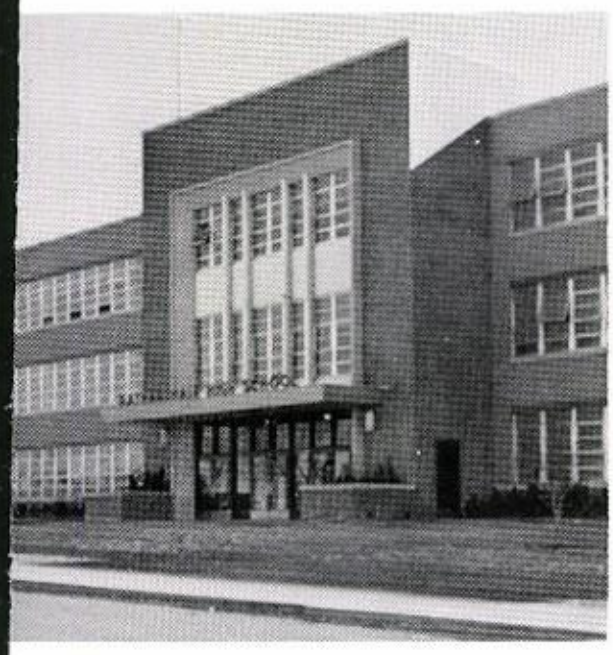
Beginning biologists resist the idea of chowder and clam up as Mr. Sands overseas a demonstration of dissecting, of all things, a venus mercenaria.

Education: what is its big idea

The purpose of education has always been: to develop a free, reasoning person who can make up his own mind, who can understand his culture, and who can live compassionately with his fellow man.

It is with this in mind that faculty and students work together to prepare to meet the great challenge —the future.

We know that all learning situations do not occur in the class room, that all of our knowledge does not come from books. And so it is that something of value accrues to each of us in the diversity of the public school program.



Serious seniors weep to think they will never darken these doorways again!

No, Gloria is not worrying about her third hour class. All that concentration is for the every little movement of the Twist.

While the camera presumably focuses on the throne, the queen's attendants get ready to take off their shoes and rehash the coronation.

Believe it or not they are dancing "The Three Blind Mice." Chances are this will never supplant the waltz.

SENIOR CLASS OF 1963

We made it. We graduated from high school. We've experienced the joy and excitement of ordering our senior rings, playing football at the senior cookout, acting in the senior play, ordering our announcements, and getting measured for our caps and gowns.

Not to be forgotten is our foreign exchange student, Urs Schnieder. Urs came to us from Switzerland, and during his year with us as students at Nathan Hale all gained a greater knowledge and understanding of his country as we hope he did of ours.

Our year was climaxed by the assembly, the Vespers service at Boston Avenue Methodist Church, the banquet, the prom, and the breakfast; the apex was reached in the long-awaited Commencement exercises.

Although we are still called the Junior class, we believe in the wave of the future. Already excitement is mounting, for as today's seniors graduate, a new group is planning to take over. '64 has a magic ring to it!

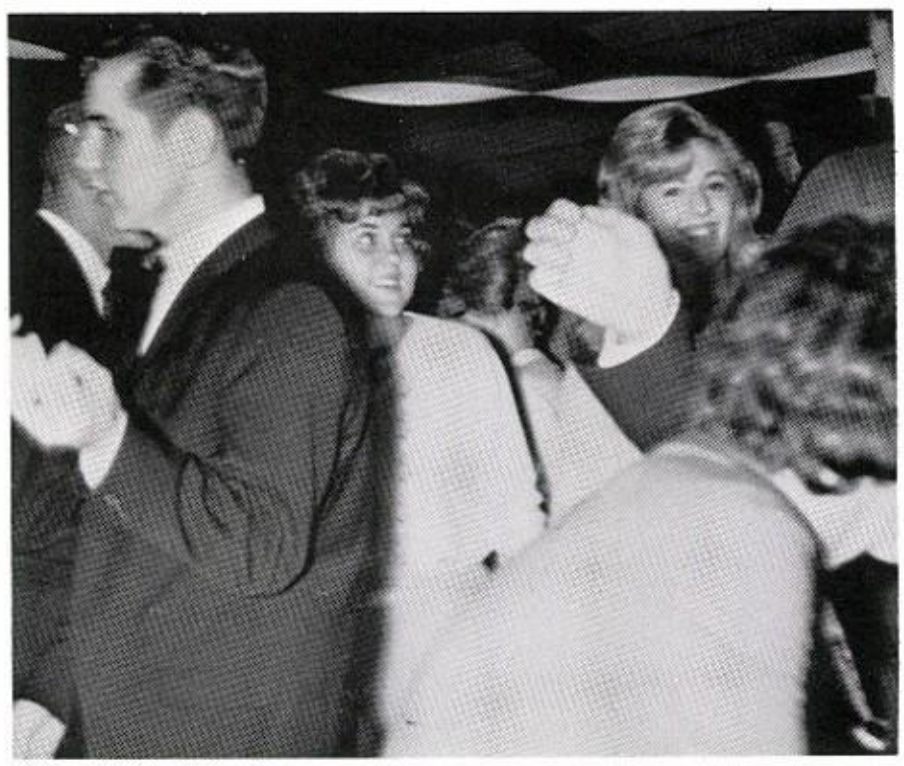
Aside from the regularly anticipated activities this class will be among the first to experience the new extended day. This year as juniors has been a busy one. Under the capable leadership of our officers: President Eddie Scott, Vice-president Ann Garrett, Secretary Lynda Carinder, and Treasurer Linda Hornbuckle the class enjoyed a prosperous year. The class play, cook-out, and a share of the Christmas dance profits all added to the treasury.

The year's activities started with the traditional cook-out held in McClure Park. Fortunately the sun shone down on all. Not to be forgotten is the stampede of football players after a lost ball which threatened to flatten the entire female rooting section. Those familiar hot dogs and an amateur hour finished off the festivities.

"The Boy Who Changed the World," a fictitious account of the invention of the wheel, was presented on November 15 and 17 by the aspiring actors of the class. Under the able direction of Gerald Garland the production was a great success.

Early in February, we ordered our senior rings which were delivered in May. As a whole the class participated with enthusiasm in all activities of the school. We produced a fair number of athletes who will star as seniors. Members of the class participated in the Speech Arts Play, "Dream Girl," and the all school musical, "Oklahoma."

"God bless you each and every one."



"It's a long way to Rolling Hills, it's a long way back home."

Juniors and Seniors participated in the annual Speakers Bureau Follies. Seen above in the first family number are Bob Odle, Donna Punnett, Mark Reel, Kirk Smith, Larry Alsup, and Lee Hawkins. "Take Back Your Mink" was sung and danced by Priscilla Mayfield and Gloria Davenport.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

The novelty of high school was soon over for the members of Hale's largest class. For the new Rangers the routine of classes and activities easily became familiar.

Under the leadership of class officers the class of '65 had an eventful year. John Neely served as president with Celia McGhee as vice-president; Linda Shoemaker, secretary; and Jenny Holbert, treasurer.

After elections the next class activity was the annual cook-out held at McClure park on October 20. The festivities included food, football, fun and frolic.

The sophomores joined with the upperclassmen in supporting the all-school Christmas dance "Winter Wonderland" and the Student Council-AFS Candy Sale.

In the field of dramatics the sophomores participated in the Speech Arts Production of "Dream Girl" and also the all-school Musical "Oklahoma." Under the direction of Mr. Gerald Garland, the sophomore play "Cheaper By the Dozen" featured hilarious comedy and spotlighted talent for next year's productions.

The 800-member class was the first to experience Hale's exclusive dual-teaching program. Next year they will attend school on the extended days schedule.

Class forums gave the class a chance to discuss their goals and aims and pep rallies proved that the lusty sophomores could out-yell the juniors and seniors.

The final activity was held in May, the election of officers for the next year. Mr. Jim Petty served as class sponsor.

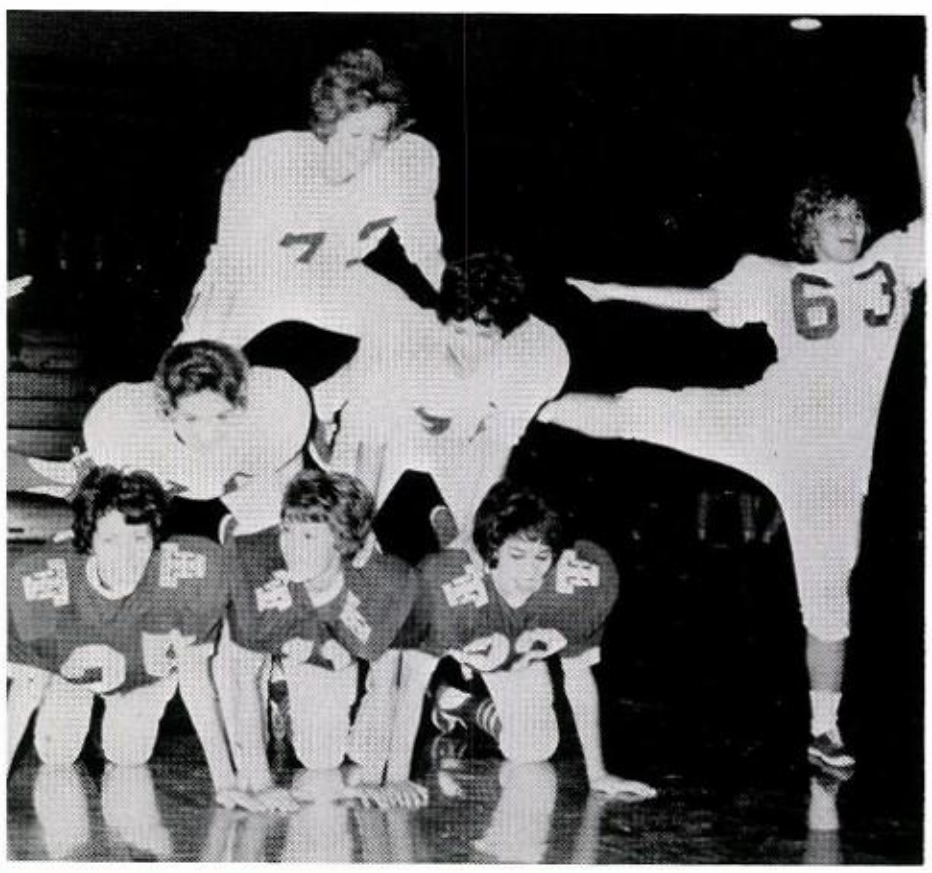
The lobby is a congregating spot for a cult of Bell Telephone worshipers. Students are found engaged in this customary pastime all hours of the day. Last season our football team didn't have to resort to acrobatics! During a pep rally the cheerleaders donned football jerseys and staged a mock game. This particular play may not be too effective as an offensive play but think of the possibilities on defense! Congestion in the lobby has become a serious problem. However, senior Bob Odle demonstrates that everyone's welcome. Alice in Wonderland with all of her friends was the theme of this year's fashion show. While Winter Wonderland set the decor for the Christmas dance. We were just left to wonder at the coronation. Those happy grins followed the battle of the bands. Merry Christmas!



ACTIVITIES

STUDENT COUNCIL

OFFICERS: Front: Susan White, Claudia Stringer, Steve Haas, Bob Clothier, Jo Ann Talbot, Karen Stephens, June Hewitt, Marde Gardener, Mrs. Burton, Sponsor, Janie Buker. Back: Howard Clapp, Betty Day, Jimb Gould, Tucky Saint.

The Student Council, as the organization for student government, enjoyed an active and eventful year. The main purpose of the Student Council is to teach good citizenship and give students an opportunity to participate in a representative form of government.

Marde Gardner served as the first female president of the Hale Student Council.

The outstanding project sponsored by the Student Council during the 1962-63 school year was the A.F.S. Candy Sale. Hale students, through the Student Council, sold enough of "The World's Finest Chocolate" to bring two foreign exchange students to Hale for the next school year.

The Student Council also sponsored this year's exchange student, Urs Schneider. This Swiss, Urs, was quickly dubbed "Mike" and spent the year with Terry Nash. The SC collected enough money to purchase a senior ring for Urs. Individual homerooms sponsored bake sales with the proceeds going to the A.F.S. fund.

Funds were also raised through the sale of Ranger stickers, pennants, school calendars and data guides.

The Hale's Bells this year was also under the supervision of the Student Council. The cover design was done by Clia Doty.

Other activities included the decorating of a Christmas tree in the lobby with the traditional blue and silver Hale colors. The Christmas Post Office, along with the Key Club's singing telegrams, provided an opportunity for the friendly Rangers to send Season's Greetings.

In local activities Hale went to the State Student Council Convention at Capital Hill in Oklahoma City. Nathan Hale also served as vice-president of the Inter-School Student Council.

Rangers celebrated the "wearin' o' the Green" by the annual Shamrock Snack breakfast held in the cafeteria on St. Patrick's Day. The SC held a dance following the Edison football game and Rangers headed for the Hills for a Valentine's Dance held at Rolling Hills Country Club.

Through the Student Council, Nathan Hale was requested as the name of a new 425-foot Polaris submarine. It was christened and launched for action on January 12, 1963. The captain was presented with an inscribed silver bowl.

As one of this year's new innovations the selection of Girl of the Year, who competes for a city-wide scholarship, was delegated for a faculty committee.

A Ranger's In Review committee was established as an honor for the most outstanding Rangers comparable to a Who's Who.

For the first time this year a President's Breakfast was held during the latter part of April. The Presidents of all the Student Councils, classes and organizations in town were invited.

Mrs. Judith Burton served as sponsor and devoted much of her time and effort to Student Council activities.

PATRIOT STAFF

This year's Patriot introduces more colored shots than have been included in the previous yearbooks.

Working around the theme of A.F.S., the staff has incorporated the idea of togetherness as far as possible.

The nine members of the staff worked with the photography class and Mr. Bob Davis to provide a wide coverage of school life pictures. Photography class members who worked on yearbook assignments were Mike Davis, Bill Vogle, Tommy Burgin, and Randy Sherrill.

In the boys sports section, Don Weatherly and Sharon Preston added individual basketball pictures this year. With each succeeding year, it is hoped that the staff will be able to include individual pictures of lettermen in other sports.

Some thirty pages have been added to the book this year. The four color cover is also an innovation. Much of the improvement to be found in layout, color, and cover can be credited to the art department.

SCHOOL LIFE

Heather Campbell and Joel Marucheck. They only look busy.

Tulsa's School Life is unique in that one paper goes to all nine high schools. Almost 12,100 students in the Tulsa public schools read it every Thursday morning.

The nine Nathan Hale reporters cover all school activities. However, the closet in room 311 has provided more than news, for it has been the site of endless debates and discussions. Journalists gather before school to complete assignments and to argue.

In these pictures the staff looks unusually calm but this is far from natural. If they are not engaged in some prank, as in the picture of James and Paul, they are hurrying frantically to meet a deadline.

Highlights of the year for the staff included the OKLAHOMA edition of SCHOOL LIFE, an interview with Harrison Salisbury, and TU press day. Celebrating the close of the school year the staff attended the picnic sponsored by the Memorial chapter of the Tulsa International Press Association held at La Fontune park.

VOCAL MUSIC DEPARTMENT

The music emanating from room 104 is as good a barometer of the seasons as the calendar. Especially last Christmas, when the Concert Choir was rehearsing for the all-school "Messiah," the melodious strains announced the time of the year.

Under the direction of Mr. David Robbins the vocal music department is composed of the Concert Choir, previously called the A Cappella Choir, the Mixed Chorus and the Choralettes or Girl's Glee Club.

The Choralettes and Mixed Chorus presented a joint concert, assisted the Concert Choir, and sang for several assemblies. Choralettes visited Whitney as part of the exchange program.

The Concert Choir presented a program for the Christmas, Easter, Thanksgiving and patriotic assemblies. This year they adopted new uniforms with the girls dressed in white silk dresses with blue accessories and the boys in blue dinner jackets and black slacks.

Concert Chorus sang for the Rotary Club and the P.T.A. and went to Whitney for a special recruitment assembly. The Spring Concert was held on May 10 and the Winter Concert on November 30.

Members of the vocal music department made up most of the vocal chorus for "Oklahoma!"

STAGECRAFT CREW.

Highlighting the season with the beautiful sets for "Oklahoma," the stage crew finished off a busy year. Prior to the all school musical, the crew under the capable direction of Mr. Jerry Harrison produced sets for three class plays and the Speech Arts play. The latter involved twenty different set changes. Below, left, is a shot of the principals in the Christmas presentation of "A Christmas Carol." To the right Priscilla Mayfield and Gloria Davenport perform in the "Speaker's Bureau Follies."

Under the direction of Mr. Gerald Garland with stage settings by Mr. Jerry Harrison and his stage crew, the Sophomores presented the enchanting story of the Gilbreth family, "Cheaper by the Dozen." The play presents a cross section of a large American family's life in the 1920's. Combining humor, romance, and pathos, the cast of sixteen went on the boards for two nights to enthusiastic houses.

"THE BOY WHO CHANGED THE WORLD"

The Junior play, which was directed by Mr. Gerald Garland with stage settings by Mr. Jerry Harrison and his crew, presented a delightful comedy of life in prehistoric times. The play, which ran two nights, centered around a young man's struggle for acceptance into the primitive society of the time. The inventor of the wheel, poetry, and music had a rough time in getting the community to accept his contributions to their welfare.

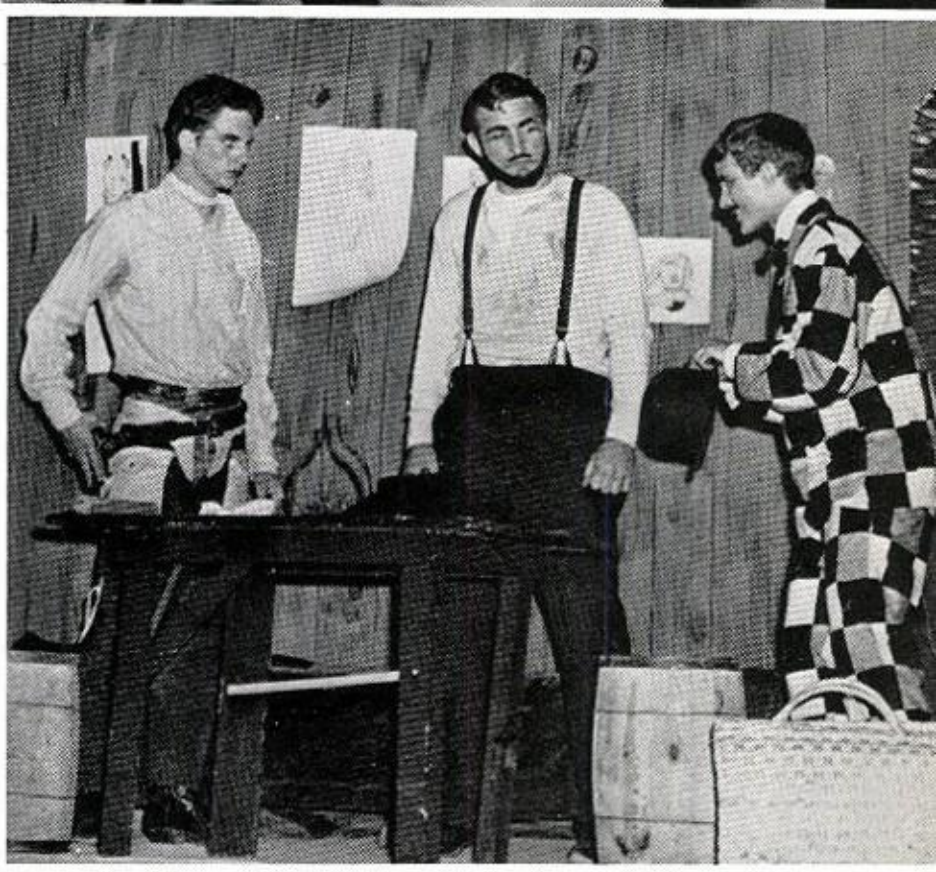
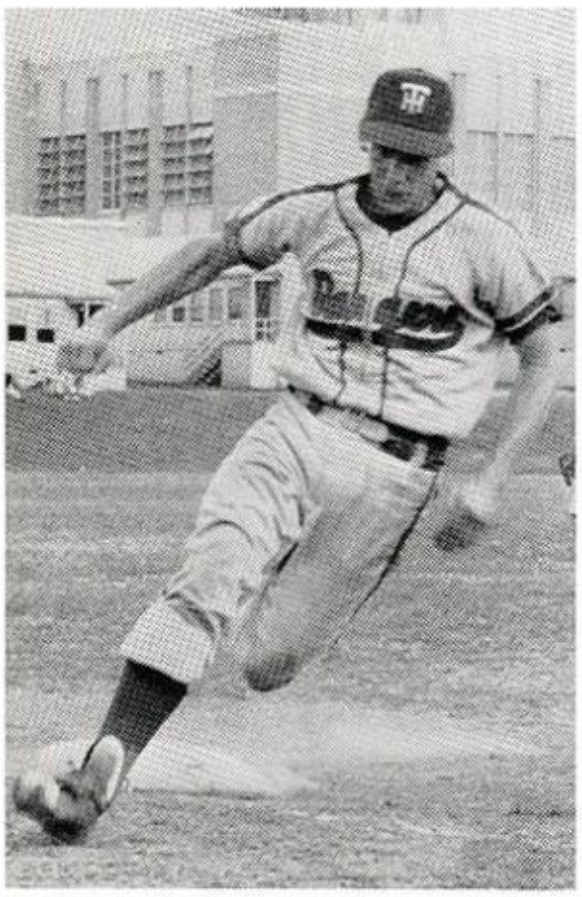
Hale's third all-school production, "Oklahoma!", ran five nights from April 16 through 20. Playing for capacity crowds the performance utilized the ability of the entire student body. The setting was Oklahoma before statehood and tells the now well known love story of the curly-headed cowboy and the simple sweet country girl.



The athletic program of Nathan Hale High exists to provide an athletic outlet for over 240 high school boys as well as fulfilling the goal of building character and confidence in our youth. It has been shown and supported, that a very real benefit is gained by a person through participation in competitive athletics. This is especially so because all sports are established on a team-competitive basis, laying direct responsibility on each individual to do his part.

Coach Woody West has been the athletic director at Hale since the school opened. To him falls the task of securing equipment for the various sports, scheduling meets and tournaments, and authorizing the use of the Hale gymnasium and the equipment and facilities allied with it.



The success of a team depends upon many factors. The ability of the individuals involved can make the difference between a winning team and a losing team of course, but to win is not the primary purpose of the program. A boy can only be taught so much, then the difference passes on to his native ability. The variable factors which can be taught and which can take up the slack in material are spirit and determination. The hopelessly out-manned team which goes down to defeat has the right to be proud of its effort if the effort was the best of which it was capable. This is a part of the Hale athletic program, to teach a boy how to resist defeat with all his heart, and, failing, to accept it without disgrace.

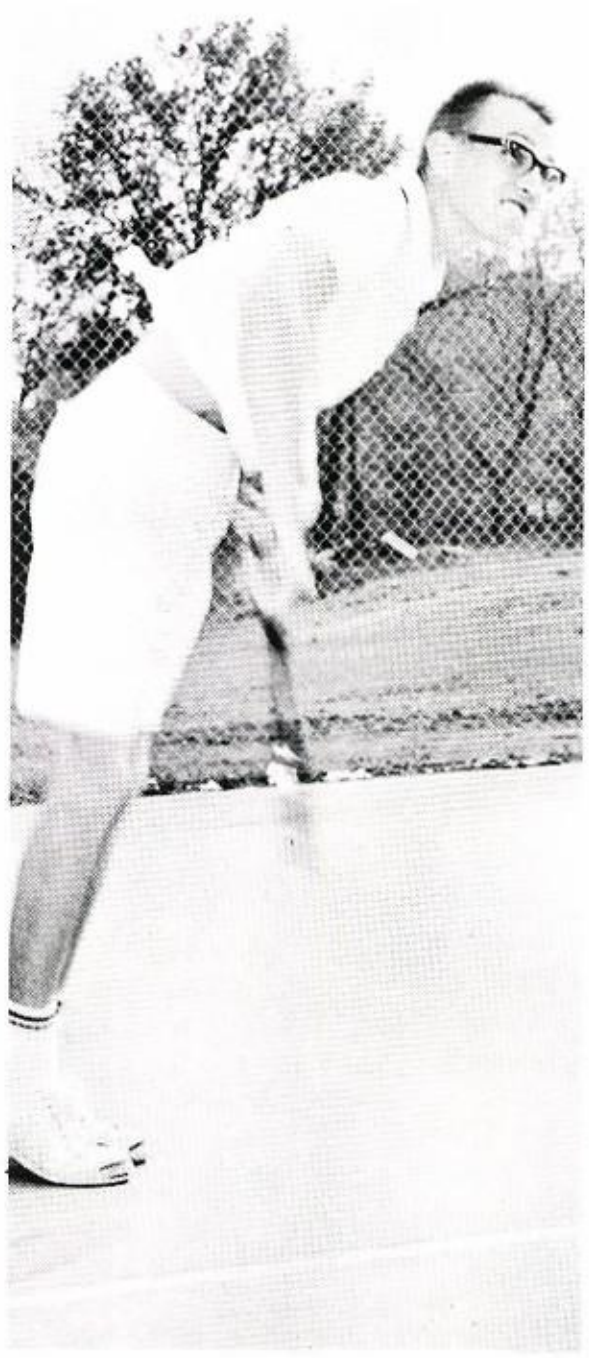
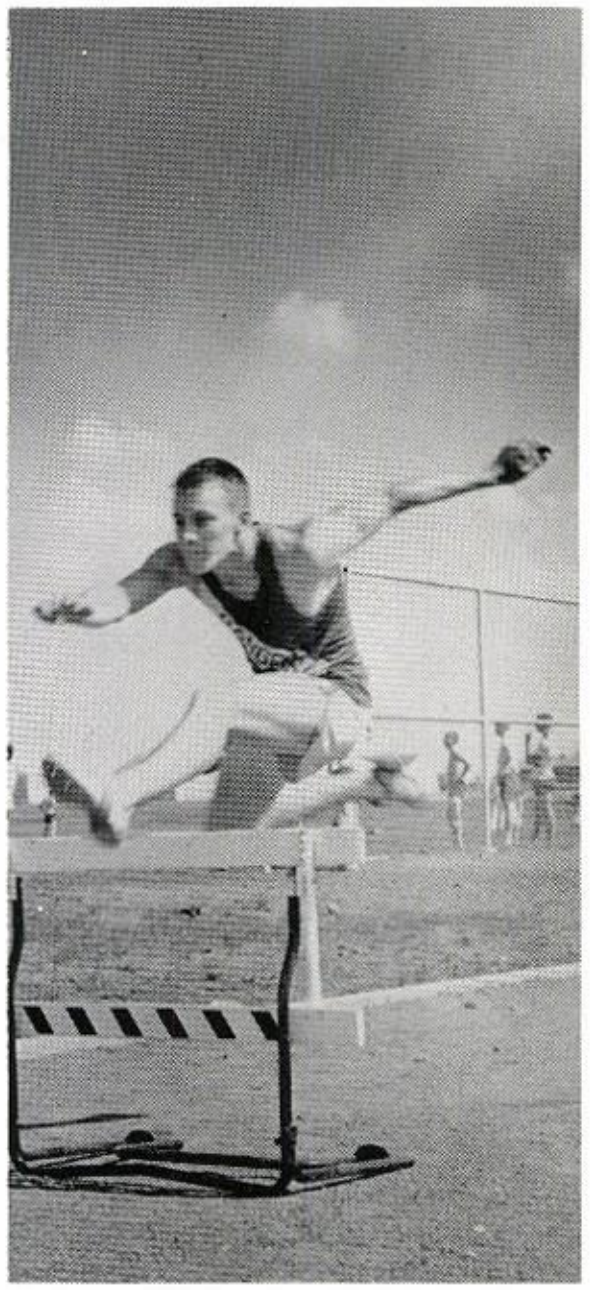
Nathan Hale has nothing to be ashamed of, however, when it comes to athletic success. In the four years the school has been in operation, Ranger teams have compiled an enviable number of winning seasons. The 1963 season was a good one for Ranger sports fans. The blue and gray teams finished the year with a second place in the Oklahoma conference in football, and conference championships in basketball and baseball. Ranger basketballers went to the state semi-finals as did the Hale diamond club, after each took their regional championships.

Ranger mermen splashed to second place in the city and third in the all-conference and state meets.

The sophomore laden golf team blasted its way to a seventh place finish in state competition.



BOYS' SPORTS



The Rangers started off their best season in the history of the school by defeating McLain, Central, and Edison to claim the annual All-City Round Robin Championship.

Hale finished the year as the city's top team with a 7-1-1 record and finished second in the newly formed Oklahoma Seven Conference. Highlights of the season were a 7-7 tie with league champ Muskogee, a 40-7 victory over arch-rival Rogers, and the selection of numerous Ranger gridsters for all-state and all-city honors. In the only defeat of the year, a valiant comeback effort fell short by two points as the Rangers scored 18 in the last seven minutes of the game to lose to Ponca City, 20-18.

Early in the season the Hale eleven proved itself one to be reckoned with by rolling up consecutive victories over Rogers, McLain, and Edison after copping the all-city trophy. This start earned the Rangers the rating of number one in the state football picture for several weeks and a place in the top ten all season long.

At the year-end football banquet, Coach H. J. Green presented the letter awards and gave special recognition to Mike Brown, Hale's 130 pound linebacker. Gary Moore and Ronnie Richardson were honored as back and lineman of the year, respectively.

B-SQUAD FOOTBALL

Coach Wally Knapp led the Hale B-squad football team to a winning season. The sophomores showed promise as future members of the varsity team. Utilizing practice and determination to supplement skill and experience, they achieved a fine record.

The prospect of organizing within a few weeks a group of unexperienced boys into a smoothly operating team, is not the easiest task assigned to a coach. Assisted by Coach Harmon Leslie, Coach Knapp found the right combination of practice and training to get the team to work together. The B-squad coach is handicapped by having no returning lettermen and experienced squadmen around which to build his team. He must analyze his material and make his decisions with regard to the skill and desire of the player, and to the ability of the player to keep himself scholastically eligible to participate.

Strategy-wise, the coach, following this analysis of the available material, must ascertain the type of game which uses to the best advantage his players. That is, to emphasize and capitalize on the strong points of the team, to discover and develop the latent possibilities of the group, and to make allowances for the aspects of the game in which the team is obviously weak, due to a lack of material.

These are problems faced, more or less, by every coach, and it is the test of his abilitity to lead and to organize whether he can turn an inexperienced group of boys into an efficiently performing team.

HALE PLAYER-OF-THE-YEAR

Nathan Hale basketballers climaxed a great season by competing in the state tournament at Oklahoma City. Claiming the first Oklahoma Seven Conference basketball crown, and compiling a record of fifteen wins and only five losses, the best in the school's history, the Rangers emerged as the city's top team.

Ranger fans had many tense, thrilling moments during the season as the team proved its ability to win the tough games. This was evidenced by a heart-pounding, one point decision over Oklahoma Seven contender, Central, and by a great effort which topped league-leader Muskogee, gaining a tie for the loop lead at that time.

Hale's stellar guards, Gary Moore and Jim Linn, were honored on the all-city and all-conference teams of the Tulsa World, at the end of the season.

Coach Woody West will have seven returning lettermen, including Linn, and guard Ray Zuniga, and with a fine group of sophomores this year, the Rangers should be tough again in '64.

Edison Tournament—Hale Fourth Place

With high school wrestling growing in popularity, the pressure to turn out a good team has become much stronger. Facing some of the toughest competition in this area, Coach Harmon Leslie led the team to a good 4-5 season record.

The fact that the Rangers were able to post only a 2-4 mark in Oklahoma Seven Conference competition points up the high caliber of the member teams.

The Ranger matmen put on a strong performance in the Edison Tournament and came up with a fourth place to show for their efforts.

When the Rangers turned their talents to baseball this spring, it was not without purpose. Coach Wally Knapp's strong-hitting team slugged its way through an eighteen game season winning fourteen and annexing the Oklahoma Seven Conference Championship.

The Rangers took second place in the Sapulpa Invitational Tournament, and then captured the class AA regional championship on their way to the state semi-finals.

Individual honors for the team went to three players, Gary Moore, Jim Linn, and Randy Branson, on the Tulsa World All City team.

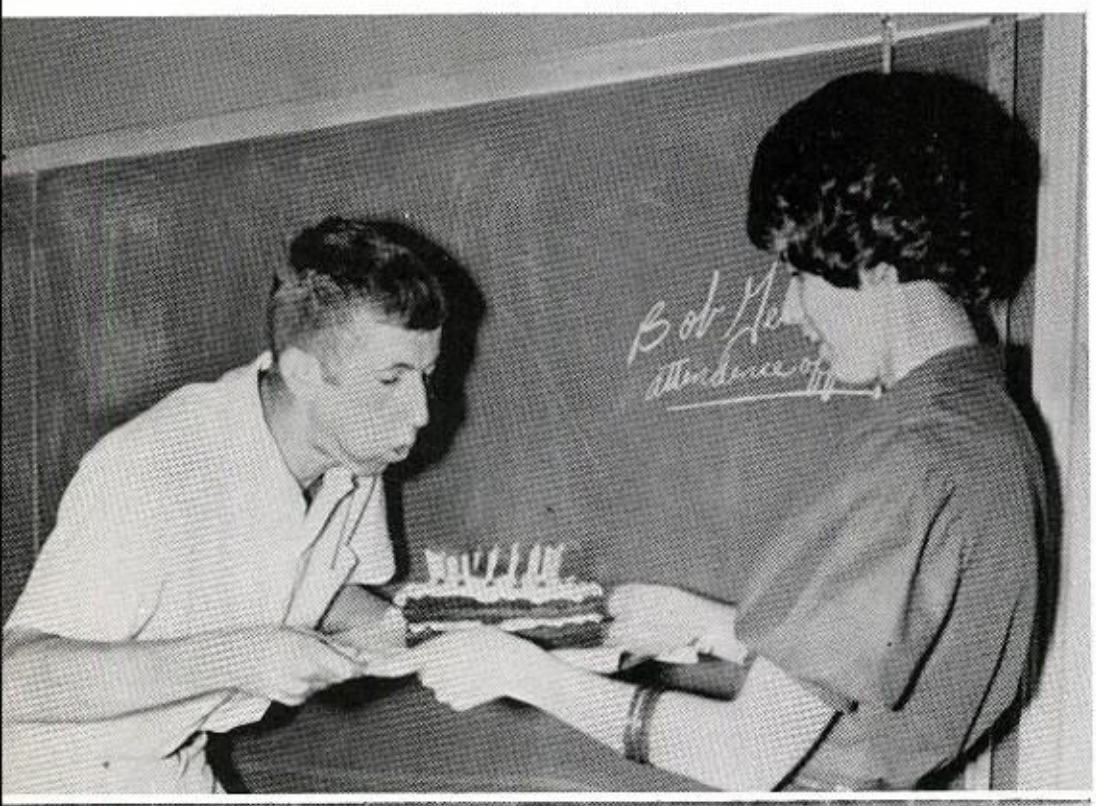
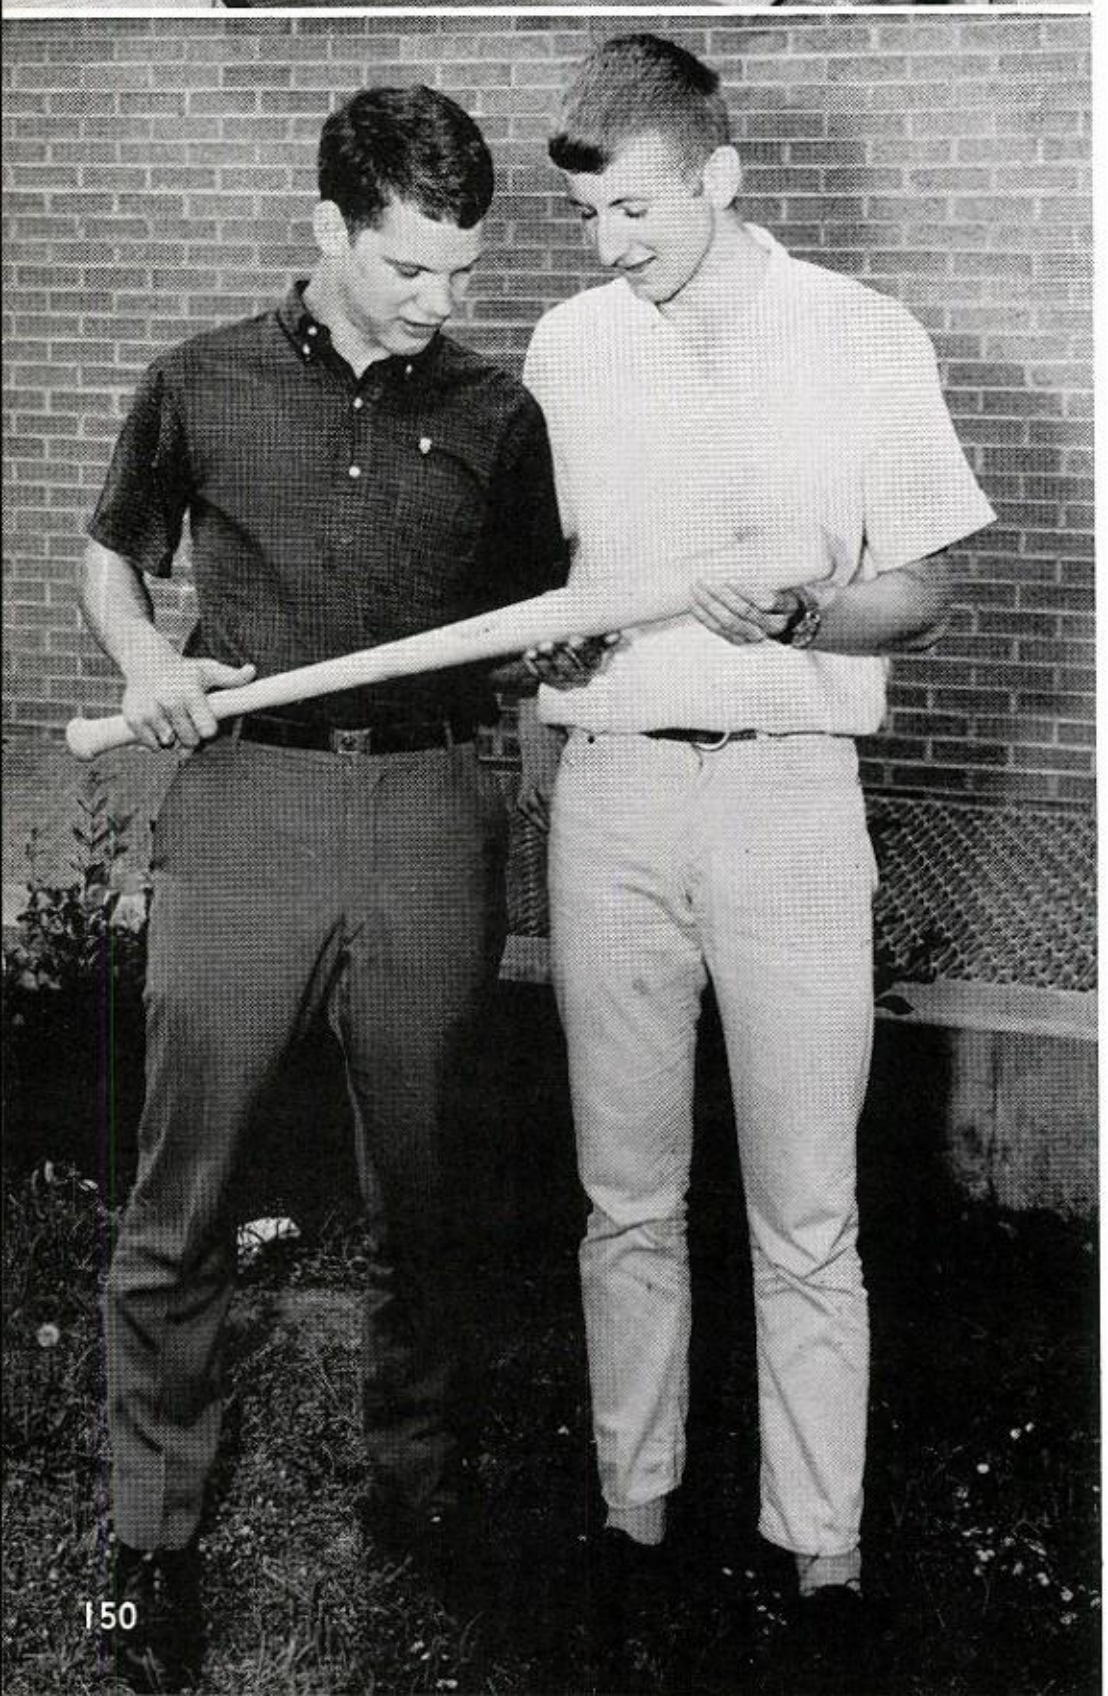
THE AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE DEVELOPS KNOWLEDGE AND





American Field Service is the remarkable organization designed to bridge the gap in world understanding by trading teen-age citizens. The Americans Abroad experience is neither a "tour" of a foreign country nor a pleasure trip. It is an experience requiring adaptability and maturity in which the AFS students are expected to contribute to the life of their host families as another member.

This year the AFS program at Hale has been a great success. Through the chocolate sale, Rangers collected enough money for two exchange students next year. Mrs. Norma Dobson is AFS sponsor.

Sponsored by AFS, Marde Gardner, Student Council president, spent last summer in Brazil living with the Vigna family in Rio de Janerio. Marde pointed out that not all Brazilians are natives and that her two sisters, Sandra 15, and Elvita 17, were of German-Italian descent.

Commenting on her trip, Marde said; "Inside I know that my horizons have broadened, my interests have become more international and my feelings have changed."

David Hamby, Hale junior, was selected as an AFS finalist which means that he will visit a foreign country this summer if a suitable host family can be located. He expressed no preference as to where he would like to go, but he has had three years of Spanish which gives him a good background for a Spanish speaking country. David has been a member of the tennis and wrestling teams for two years and plays the accordion as a hobby. He hopes to major in linguistics and perhaps translate or teach.

PROGRAM AT NATHAN HALE UNDERSTANDING THROUGH INTERNATIONAL SCHOLARSHIPS

David felt that the trip would help him to "have a better understanding of people that I stay with and I hope to leave something with them of our American way of life."

The "Americanization" of Urs Scheider began early in September with his arrival and introduction to his host family and adopted brother Terry Nash. The tall lanky Ranger hails from Switzerland, and has learned to like everything from football games to cowboy boots. By Christmas he looked like any other Ranger with the letterman's jacket he received from the Student Council. Urs, or "Mike" as he was affectionately dubbed, showed slides of his native Switzerland and family during an assembly and spoke for many clubs and organizations. He was presented with a senior ring during the awards assembly at the last of school.

These pictures include his party given by Mrs. Norma Dobson's and Mrs. Ara Snyder's homerooms on May 15, exactly one month earlier than his birthday. Urs blew out all the candles but he didn't understand the custom of making a wish! He received an album of the sound track for "Oklahoma!" because he had a part in the Hale production. It will not be easy for Urs to leave Hale. He has become fully "integrated." His friends and teachers will remember his quick wit and sunny disposition. Like his predecessors he has made his mark.
